Specific topics

'To let'

➔ Permission is expressed using 'let' + object + infinitive without 'to.'	Example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • They let their child do what he wants.
➔ 'Let' can also be used as an imperative auxiliary.	Example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Let her do what she likes. • Let me just deal with this lady first.

Note:

- ➔ A sentence formed with let to express permission cannot be used in the passive. The expression 'to be allowed to' is therefore used.

Example:

- The child is allowed to do what he wants.

- ➔ The infinitive without 'to' may be implied.

Example:

- She would like to go to India but her parents won't let her.

'To write' – Exercise – Word order

Expression of preference

Two related expressions are used to speak of preference:

➔ 'Would prefer' ('d prefer) precedes a nominal group, a gerund, or an infinitive. Note: In sentences containing 'would prefer', negations are placed before the main verb (an infinitive).	Example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • We would prefer one payment. • Would you prefer staying at home? • I'd prefer to talk to someone else. Example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • I'd prefer not to meet him.
➔ 'Would rather' is used mainly in speech. It precedes an infinitive without 'to' when only one subject is present (i.e., the verb takes the same subject as does 'would rather'), and a past subjunctive otherwise. Note: When only one subject is present, negations precede the infinitive. Where there are two subjects, negations are applied to the conjugated verb.	Example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Would you rather be in a compartment? • We'd rather he went now. Example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • She'd rather not stay alone. • I'd rather we didn't invite him.

➔ To compare something to another in an approximate or partial way, you can use the expression 'kind of like a / an' + noun. ➔ Often, this expression is followed by a 'but' clause.	Example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What is that? It looks kind of like an agenda, but is much bigger. • The new briefcase is kind of like a traditional one, but has more modern features.
➔ You can use the expressions sort of and type of in much the same way as kind of. Note: When referring to something plural, kind of, sort of, and type of become kinds of, sorts of, and types of.	Example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What sort of investment do you want to make? • What type of a consultant do you plan to hire? • It's sort of an issue, but there's no need to worry. Example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What kinds of clients do you generally work with?
